De-identified training reference for PathNav. This is a synthetic summary, not an official accommodation letter and not a record for any individual.

Purpose

This example describes common accessibility requirements that may need to be communicated and coordinated between a student, instructors, and disability-support staff.

Accommodation requirements

- Extended time for tests and quizzes.
- An alternate testing location when needed.
- Access to instructor notes or presentation slides when available.
- Permission for food and drink in the classroom.
- Permission to record lectures.
- Preferential seating based on visibility and access needs.
- A limited, case-by-case deadline extension process agreed on with the instructor.
- A limited, course-specific flexibility process for attendance and missed work.
- Flexible options for participation on days when verbal participation is affected.

Implementation notes

Accommodations should be discussed with the relevant instructor or support office. They may be subject to course-specific feasibility and should be applied prospectively. The student chooses whether and when to use an approved accommodation.
